Daken Fire-Resistant Cable Tray (DFCT) is a next-generation solution integrating fire resistance, structural reinforcement, and ventilation. Constructed with an epoxy-based intumescent fire protection system and internal metal reinforcement plates, DFCT trays form a dense insulating char under high temperatures, reducing heat transfer and protecting cables from accelerated aging. They are suitable for nuclear power facilities, high-risk industrial environments, and long-span installations.

Flampro provides fire protection coatings and tapes for cable trays, such as FLAMMOTECT-A and DG-CR 0.7, which enhance fire resistance and environmental durability. These solutions are used in hospitals, airports, industrial plants, and substations, ensuring cables remain functional during fire events while resisting UV, moisture, and chemical exposure.

AF Systems offers cable tray solutions compatible with REI mineral fiber false ceilings and mixed service installations. Their products support electrical cables, busbars, and multilayer pipes, providing fireproofing in compliance with UNI EN 12101:13:2022 standards, suitable for smoke-proof and high-safety areas.
