

Manufacturers selling optical cables in Southern Europe

AI Overview

Key optical cable manufacturers in Southern Europe include Prysmian Group (Italy) and Upcom Technologies (Turkey), both offering advanced fiber optic solutions for telecom and data networks.

Notable Manufacturers

- 1. Prysmian Group (Italy) Prysmian Group, headquartered in Milan, Italy, is one of the largest and most established cable manufacturers globally. They produce a wide range of fiber optic cables, including FTTH (Fiber-to-the-Home), submarine cables, and high-density Sirocco™ cables. Prysmian is known for innovations like BendBrightXS fibers for tight bends and Hollow-Core Fiber (HCF) for ultra-low latency data transmission. Their products serve telecommunications, energy, and special projects such as aerospace and oil & gas applications.
- 2. Upcom Technologies (Turkey) Based in Turkey, Upcom Technologies specializes in high-performance fiber optic cables for telecommunications and data networking. Their offerings include FTTH solutions, data center cables, and custom fiber assemblies, leveraging modern production facilities to meet high-speed connectivity demands.
- 3. Nexans (Southern Europe presence) While headquartered in France, Nexans operates across Southern Europe and provides CPR-compliant optical cables that meet strict fire safety standards. Their products are widely used in commercial and industrial installations, including data centers and urban infrastructure projects.

Additional Considerations Southern Europe also hosts smaller or specialized manufacturers and suppliers that may provide custom fiber optic solutions for niche applications. Companies in this region often emphasize sustainability, compliance with European environmental standards, and advanced manufacturing techniques. For example, some Turkish and Italian firms focus on polymer optical fibers (POF) and hybrid cables for industrial and telecom application...
